

Figure 1. A hierarchical diagram showing the relationship between the different levels of the organization. The diagram is organized into three main sections: 'Strategic Level', 'Operational Level', and 'Tactical Level'. The 'Strategic Level' includes 'Vision', 'Mission', and 'Values'. The 'Operational Level' includes 'Business Processes', 'Organizational Structure', and 'Human Resources'. The 'Tactical Level' includes 'Marketing', 'Finance', 'Operations', and 'IT'. Arrows indicate the flow of information and resources between these levels.

[illegible][illegible]

so that neither god may claim for himself either the full material field of man's activity or the living, spiritual part of man's activity in the full sense of the word, and that the full sense of the word may be preserved in the full sense of the word.

[illegible]

—संक्षेपम्—

[illegible][illegible]

